Overall, I think this looks great! I love the font choices and the clean layout. I think the gallery section is perfect. I would like to incorporate some more color into the life and work pages. Maybe we could do some additional images on those pages (not sure if the top banner image goes with the life page but that might be enough) or maybe a couple accent background colors. Maybe the light blue or the pink from her pieces. I also think it could be cool to incorporate red and or orange maybe with some type of click or hover transformation on the page links, but that might be something to discuss later once we have a site.

I think that you captured the gallery feel really well. I just want to add in a little more of her whimsical side. My overall first impressions were really positive and I think you have a great start here. The changes are probably minor enough that we don't need another mockup before moving on to the first draft of the site unless there is something you really want to try out first.
